

Journal for the Study of Spirituality

An interdisciplinary and inter-professional forum for contemporary spirituality studies

Editor-in-Chief: Cheryl Hunt, University of Exeter, UK
(c.hunt@exeter.ac.uk)

Journal of the British Association for the Study of Spirituality (BASS)

Archive: Subscriptions include online access to the journal archive from Volume 1, 2011

www.maneyonline.com/jss

 Maney Publishing
Research · Knowledge · Innovation

Journal for the Study of Spirituality provides an international, peer-reviewed forum for the dissemination and exploration of research, knowledge, wisdom and insight associated with spirituality and contemporary spirituality studies. It is concerned with what spirituality means; how it is expressed in both theory and practice; and implications for social / organisational policies and personal / professional development. The journal recognises that spirituality and spiritual values can be expressed and studied in secular contexts, including scientific and professional settings, as well as within faith and wisdom traditions.

Editor's Choice articles:

- Are We All Spiritual? A Comparative Perspective on the Appropriation of a New Concept of Spirituality, Anne-Christine Hornborg
- Secular Pegs and God-Shaped Holes, Jonathan Koestlé-Cate
- Spirituality and Health, Christopher C H Cook
- Celtic Spirituality and Postmodern Geography, Laura Béres
- Hermeneutics of Trust vs. Hermeneutics of Doubt: Considering Shaker Spirituality, Rachel Cope

 For subscription and membership information, and to browse the latest issue, please visit the journal homepage.

 Submit your paper to the Editor by email: c.hunt@exeter.ac.uk

Journal homepage: www.maneyonline.com/jss